STATE BOARD WILL REVIEW PLEA SEPT. 14

Session Last Step in Obtaining State O. K. on $1,000,000 Slum Clearance.

THEN UP TO U. S. BOARD

Meeting Open to Persons or Organizations Interested in Proposed Project.

The state board of housing today set Sept. 14 as the date for public hearing on Mansfield's request for a $1,000,000 slum clearance program.

George C. Kyle, chairman of Mansfield's housing committee, notified of the hearing today, said it was the final step toward obtaining state approval of the city's program.

Kyle was optimistic about the chances of approval by the state board and said that if this is forthcoming, the next move will be to forward the program to Washington for sanctioning by federal authorities.

Hearing at 1:30 P. M.

In a communication from O. W. L. Coffin, secretary of the state housing board, Kyle was informed the Mansfield hearing will be held in Columbus, room No. 3 of the state office building at 1:30 p. m.

"Any persons or organizations in Mansfield or Richland county desiring to express themselves on this matter will be heard at this meeting provided they submit a prepared brief or statement in advance or before the hearing, which contains their remarks," Coffin said.

City Briefs Submitted.

Kyle announced that the Mansfield housing committee already has submitted its briefs to the state board together with a complete outline of the program proposed for Mansfield.

Kyle said that he and Charles W. Conklin, secretary of the local board, will attend the hearing.

Accompanying the outline of Mansfield's proposed program were statements from various civic organizations endorsing the program.

A map showing sections of the city where crime and juvenile delinquency are most prevalent and the type of dwelling in those sections also was forwarded to the Columbus office.

POWERS JOCKEY FOR POSITIONS

All Watching for Next Move, With Negotiations Giving Them Breathing Spell.

(By United Press)

Europe had the air of an armed camp today, the big powers professing themselves ready for war while they jockeyed desperately behind the scenes to avoid it—probably at the expense of Czechoslovakia.

In the breathing spell afforded by the negotiations between the Sudeten German minority in Czechoslovakia and the Czechoslovak government, there were two sides to the picture.

On the one hand, Britain and France apparently have convinced Adolf Hitler that they have a line-up which would inevitably assure his defeat if he starts a war.

On the other hand, Hitler has a trump card in the fact that Britain and France are desperately anxious to avoid war at almost any cost, and he knows it.

Hitler apparently feels sure that Britain and France will bring

ASKS BOND VOTE

Union School Board's Plea in Doubt, Filed 2 Days Late.

Although the Union rural board of education had been authorized today by the state tax commission to submit a proposed $75,900 bond issue at a special election Sept. 20, there was a question as to whether the county board of elections would approve the request for an election.

The application for an election was to be filed with the election board at noon today, two days after the filing deadline.

George C. Balliet, president of the board, said he understood an election could not be authorized unless the official notice reached the board of elections at least 20 days before the proposed election date.

"We will seek a state ruling on the matter, however, and act accordingly in considering the application," he said.

SEEKS SPEEDY 'OVEN' DEATH INDICTMENTS

District Attorney Prepares to Act as Coroner's Jury Finds 14 Guilty.

'STEAM CELLS' LOCKED

Warden, Deputy Bound Over Under $10,000 Bond on Negligence Charges.

(By United Press)

PHILADELPHIA—The district attorney's office announced today that indictments would be sought quickly against the warden, deputy warden, guard captain, two doctors and nine guards of Philadelphia county prison, where four convicts were roasted to death by steam two weeks ago.

A coroner's jury found all 14 guilty of criminal negligence and they were held under bond's ranging from $2,500 to $10,000. The county prison board suspended them all and placed its physician, Dr. Frederick S. Baldi, in charge of the prison.

Seeks Indictments 'Promptly.'

John A. Boyce, assistant district attorney, said indictments would be sought "promptly," and it was understood that the September grand jury would consider the evidence within 10 days.

"Klondike," the punishment cell building, was closed last night on orders of State Welfare Secretary Charles I. Engard. The key was given to Daniel B. Conlin, welfare department representative.

Bonds for Warden William B. Mills and Deputy Frank Craven were set at $10,000 each. Guard Captain James McGuire and two guards, Alfred Brough and Francis Smith, who have already been arraigned on homicide charges, were held under $5,000 bond. Dr. George Enoch, who testified that he regularly visited the "Klondike" or punishment cells, every 24 hours but was not permitted to go there on Aug. 21 when the four prisoners were suffocating, and Dr. Hans Abrahams who said he knew there were prisoners in the Klondike but that he did not visit them, both were held under $2,500 bonds.

Tortured 3 Days and Nights.

The other guards, also under $2,500 bonds, were Robert Morrow, Samuel James, Edward J. Corkery, William Stains, Thomas Cavanaugh, Sylvester Weaver, and John Mulhern.

The four who died, Harry Osborne, Joseph Walters, Frank Comodeca and James McQuade, were subjected to three days and nights of torture as punishment for a hunger strike against monotonous prison fare.

Cuard Sergeant James Hart, named by Mills and Craven as the one who turned on the heat, was exonerated. He had testified that the "heat cure" was standard punishment for recalcitrants under an order issued a year ago.

'WINNING WEST' TOO REALISTIC

Indian Full of Buckshot, Has Horse Killed By Moldy Hay.

YAKIMA, Wash. — (AP) — The white man's portrayal of "Winning the West" was a bit too realistic for Jim Looney, an Indian.

He filed suit for $1,725 against sponsors of a pioneer celebration.

He charged that when the shooting was over he had 45 shotgun pellets in his body. His horse was dead, too—from eating moldy hay.

Bendix Fliers Speed Across U. S. In First Air Race Event

(By United Press)

UNION AIR TERMINAL, Burbank, Cal.—Ten of the nation's crack speed fliers winged their way eastward toward Cleveland today in the $30,000 Bendix air derby.

Led by Ross Hadley, Los Angeles sportsman-pilot, the fliers started taking off at 1:47 a. m. PAST (4:47 a. m. EST). Four hours later, Frank Cordova, last pilot to get away, took off.

Poor flying conditions over part of the route may slow the fliers down.

Bob Perlick, Glendale, Cal., sky writer, was equipped with an oxygen mask for sub-stratosphere flying. He planned to fly at an altitude of 20,000 feet.

Jacqueline Cochran, flying the speedy silver ship flown here in a record-breaking cross-country dash last week by Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky, was the only woman in the race. She was one of the favorites in this, her third attempt at winning the $9,000 first prize.

CLEVELAND —(UP)— Approximately 100,000 persons will watch the National Air races program of daring aerial stunts and wartime maneuvers by military fliers today while waiting for the 10 Bendix racers from Los Angeles.

Douglas Corrigan, the "wrong way" ocean flier, was to arrive in his $900 "crate" for an official welcome by the city.

Face Grand Jury In Oven Deaths

Deputy Warden Frank A. Craven (left) and Superintendent William B. Mills (right) of the Philadelphia county prison today awaited grand jury action after a coroner's jury found them guilty, together with a guard captain, two doctors and nine guards, of criminal negligence in the death by roasting of four prison convicts two weeks ago. The coroner's jury learned that the "heat cure" was a standard punishment for recalcitrant prisoners. The four who died had been left in the air-tight "Klondike" for three days and nights, along with 21 others, with the steam turned on.

Summer's Last Holiday to Take Hundreds Out of City

Lake Resorts, Air Races to Attract Mansfielders on Labor Day; Observance Here at North Park.

Mansfield prepared today for a holiday week-end, the last of three during the spring and summer months this year. Trips to lake resorts and attendance at the National Air races in Cleveland were planned by scores of residents.

The Labor day holiday Monday will be quietly observed so far as the city itself is concerned. The Mansfield Industrial council, sponsoring the observance here, has arranged a day of entertainment at North Lake park.

There will be no parade this year, but at the park the day's festivities will open at 10 a. m. and continue for the balance of the day.

Speak At Park.

Talks by Mayor C. M. Hunter; Elmer O. Fahlhaber, of Cleveland, secretary of the Ohio Non-Partisan league; George W. Biddle, Mansfield attorney; Rev. Mark A. Voegel, assistant pastor of St. Peter's church, and Rev. Paul E. Hollingshead, pastor of Central Methodist church, get under way at 1 p. m.

Six boxing matches, a tug-of-war, games and contests for boys and girls, a kittenball game and dancing at the Coliseum will provide entertainment during the balance of the afternoon and evening.

It was expected that the city will send more than 500 persons to the air races in Cleveland. The races opened today.

Although the forecast calls for cloudy and continued cool weather, lake resorts are expected to be favorite spots of Mansfielders planning picnics and outings.

Stores, the postoffice, public buildings and most manufacturing plants will be closed for the holiday.

DROPS CHARGE

Finds No Crime in Elopement of Arab and Girl, 17.

NEW YORK—(UP)—U. S. Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter today dismissed charges of Mann act violation made against Nijib Tooney, 27-year-old Arab, by the father of the beautiful 17-year-old Missouri girl with whom Tooney eloped a week ago.

The couple walked into federal bureau of investigation headquarters last night on the eve of their scheduled sailing for Europe. They said they wanted to clear themselves of charges brought by the former Doris Hisaw's parents at Neosho, Mo. There had been a furor in the bride's home town over magic love potions, harems and Mann act violations.

John W. Dowling, assistant U. S. attorney, said a "complete investigation" convinced him that the wealthy youg Arab had committed no crime.

CHECK ON TIRE MARKS

Hunt Spot Where Rancher's Wife Was Transferred to Second Car.

(By Associated Press)

YUBA CITY, Cal.—Federal and state forces were abruptly withdrawn from the hunt for kidnapers of Mrs. W. R. Meeks in what observers suggested today might be a move to permit her abductors to make contact with her orchardist husband.

Shortly after Gov. Frank Merriam recalled 120 national guardsmen and 100 state highway patrolmen, N. J. L. Pieper, Federal Bureau of Investigation chief from San Francisco, announced that the FBI was withdrawing from the case.

"There is no evidence, thus far," Pieper said, "of the violation of any federal law. I am withdrawing FBI men from the case but the facilities of our office will be open."

Sheriff Expresses Fear.

The "G-man" withdrew just 24 hours after Meeks reported two roughly dressed men had kidnaped his 55-year-old wife, demanding $15,000 ransom.

Sheriff Bert Ullrey, who again assumed full charge of the hunt, expressed fear for the life of Mrs. Meeks, who he said was in the hands of desperate men.

Meeks said he could not raise $15,000 even if he sold his ranch and all his other possessions.

Check Tire Marks.

Finding of tire marks and shoe prints beneath a bridge near the ranch home was investigated on the theory they might mark the spot where the woman was transferred to a second automobile before the Meeks car which was stolen by the kidnapers, was abandoned.

Federal agents refused to disclose whether they found fingerprints of any value on the rancher's recovered automobile.

Will Hines Testify? Query With Dewey Nears Wind-up

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—With the presentation of testimony intended to corroborate the accusations of gangland informers that James J. Hines shared liberally in the profits of a $20,000,000 policy racket, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's case against the Tammany district leader was near completion today.

When the trial recessed yesterday until Tuesday, 39 witnesses had testified. Approximately 10 more prosecution witnesses were scheduled.

The defense strategy has not been revealed, but the most frequent question heard around the courtroom was: "Will Hines take the stand?"

The grizzled Democratic boss has declared he would welcome an opportunity to match wits and words with young Dewey, racket-busting prosecutor.

One of many successive climaxes in the case was reached at the end of yesterday's session when Mrs. Rose Wendroff, sister of Dixie Davis, gang lawyer, testified she personally had delivered money to Hines four or five times.

With her testimony was offered a $500 check which she said she had given to Hines. This was the first written evidence purportedly linking Hines directly to the racket. The check was made out to "cash" and bore on its back the name "J. Hines" which Dewey acknowledged was not in the defendant's handwriting.

Local Option Vote Sought In Township

Petitions Circulated West of City Cover Both Sale of Beer, Liquor; 300 Names Needed to Put Question on Ballot.

Petitions for a local option vote on the sale of beer and liquor in Springfield township were being circulated today by a committee headed by J. T. Shafer, Park avenue west road.

Board of elections officials said Shafer had obtained petitions covering the sale of both beer and intoxicating liquors in the township, west of Mansfield, which has a number of taverns with beer and liquor permits.

The petitions seek a vote on the liquor sale issue at the Nov. 8 election.

Beer, Liquor Vote Separate.

At least 306 legal signatures must be filed with the election board not later than 60 days before the election to place the beer sale issue on the ballot.

Petitions for a vote on the sale of intoxicating liquors need only 131 signatures and can be filed as late as 30 days preceding the election, board officials pointed out. The signatures represent 35 and 15 per cent of the total vote cast for governor in Springfield township at the last general election

Shafer said the movement was organized after a number of residents of the township had complained that celebrants at the taverns at late hours were "a nuisance."

He said the five-member committee, chosen to circulate the petitions, had obtained about 300 names already and hoped to have the petitions ready to file by next Tuesday. Ten petitions are in circulation in the township, he said.

'MAN' IS TOPIC

Lesson-Sermon Will Be Read at Scientist Church Sunday.

"Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "Blessed are they that dwell in thy house: they will be still praising thee. . . . O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man that trusteth in thee" (Psalms 84:4, 12).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any twoedged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart" (Hebrews 4:12).

No Progress Without Work.

NEXT MONDAY'S observance of Labor day will serve to emphasize a subject to which more people in the United States are now giving thought than ever before.

In its broadest sense, labor is the first essential of civilized living, as every advance step from savagery has depended on people who did some kind of necessary work—physical or mental.

Accomplishments in each generation have been made possible by those who were willing and able to work. Each generation has also had its proportion of drones, criminals and physical or mental unfortunates who were unable or unwilling to contribute a fair share to the world's work and who were supported by the labor of others.

The history of America is a history of struggle, from pioneer times through to the present—and there is no reason to believe that this struggle will not continue long into the future, with WORK as the requirement for continued national and individual progress.

Whatever surplus has been accumulated through successive generations, and which is referred to as "capital," originated as labor and now provides the means for extension of labor's opportunity to additional millions of persons who are thus enabled to sustain themselves and their dependents on living standards that surpass those of any other country in the world.

A fact that is sometimes overlooked is that there is need for all kinds of work—mental as well as physical, managerial as well as manual—and that were it not for the comparatively few who have talent and develop ability to draw together the capital to establish, equip and operate industries, transportation lines and other forms of business, it would be impossible to provide employment for the millions who are anxious and able to work.

In the light of better understanding there can be no quarrel between capital and labor—nor between rival labor groups. Their mutual interests are too well defined to permit bickering and distrust without seriously affecting the welfare and happiness of everybody concerned.

A sincere effort toward better understanding might well be the theme of this year's Labor day observance.

Nonpartisan Perfection.

A TIMELY service is performed in Washington by the civil service commission warning more than half a million federal employes not to engage in any city, county, state or national election campaign. Disobedience may result in loss of their jobs. Even wearing campaign buttons or displaying campaign stickers on cars is "out."

They must not serve on political committees, conduct or address rallies, serve or engage in any activity at the polls, circulate campaign literature or political petitions, or be prominently identified with any political movement, party or faction.

Such a pronouncement is of more than ordinary interest in Ohio where the recent Democratic primaries witnessed flagrant violations of civil service regulations in behalf of one of the candidates. It would be fine if such rules could be fully enforced.

Mayor Hunter's New York Trip.

AN ADMIRABLE quality about Mansfield's Mayor Hunter is his willingness, and ability, to think.

It was not by mere accident, during his recent New York visit, that Mayor Hunter happened upon the same "pebble in a pool" illustration that had come to the mind of Congressman Bruce Barton—it was THINKING that stirred brain cells and developed the idea that fitted so neatly into the mayor's talk.

Mayor Hunter also has the advantage of realizing that he doesn't "know it all." He has an insatiable thirst for additional knowledge along many lines and an educational foundation on which to build.

He is an interesting conversationalist because he knows how, and when, to listen, as well as how to express his own views clearly. He is steadily improving as a speaker at public gatherings and his talks show that, in each instance, thought has been given to preparation.

The fact that his first visit to New York City this week also marked his first venture on an airplane trip, evidences commendable deliberateness in making decisions — which usually results in following a safe middle course instead of hasty actions that might later be regretted.

Possibly Mayor Hunter's airplane ride will make him even more enthusiastic for completion of Mansfield's airport. In any event, his trip to New York should increase his appreciation of the advantages of living in Mansfield.

Time and Germany.

A QUESTION often asked these days is what good it does for the European nations to play for time against war. If time gives Great Britain and France a better chance to prepare, does it not also give the dictatorship countries the same time and the same advantage? And therefore prolong the war when it does come?

The belief seems to be that time and preparation are in favor of the democracies, that Hitler cannot maintain his place and prestige much longer. There are said to be signs of internal cracking in Germany. If war can be held off a few months or a year longer, the chances are that Germany will go to pieces inside its own walls. And no war will be necessary. If this be true, time is indeed important.

As one writer puts it: "If the wealth of the country were divided, each person would have $50.67 and owe about $250."

More tourists than usual have been visiting Mammoth Cave this year—possibly fearing for its future.

Watching Trends

While Preston Grover is on vacation, persons prominent in the official and political life of the nation and in journalism are conducting this column. Today's guest column is written

By THURMAN ARNOLD
Assistant Attorney General In Charge of Anti-Trust Division.

WASHINGTON — Forty years ago the federal government launched an effort to halt harmful monopoly and price fixing by small groups and the concentration of wealth and power in a few hands.

It has been a popular effort but despite a government religion officially dedicated to the economic independence of individuals, the growth of great organizations in America has been amazing. The reason is that we have been trying to police the industrial activities of America with a corporal's guard.

The scope of the problem is indicated in internal revenue statistics for 1935 which show that over 50 per cent of all net corporate incomes is earned by less than one-tenth of one per cent of the corporations reporting, and 84 per cent of the aggregate, corporate net profits is earned by less than 4 per cent of the corporations reporting.

Today that 40-year effort must be directed on a new tack. We can no longer treat the anti-trust laws as a moral problem. They are being employed as far as their capacity will permit to bring practical results in restoring a competitive market which in many fields has been lost.

The problem then is to define the public responsibility of such organizations and to determine which are efficient combinations for mass production and which are instruments arbitrarily assessing inflexible prices after achieving monopoly.

This determination may be made only after a factual investigation. Once that investigation discloses to us the existence of a harmful monopolistic condition within an industry, the corrective process under the anti-trust laws begins.

* * *

Guide and Warning.

THREE courses are open. Criminal prosecution may punish past conduct and serve as a warning. Civil prosecutions may look to the future beneficial organization of the industry. The third is the concurrent prosecution of the two, sharing elements of both but at the same time leaving the door open at any time for the business men involved to volunteer a practical solution of major and immediate benefit to the industry, to competitors and to the public.

It is the policy of the department to make public in connection with each case the basis of the criminal complaint and civil action. Such statements serve (1) as a guide to business men who seek information on the probable action of the department in similar circumstances; (2) to aid the department itself in formulating a consistent policy of anti-trust law enforcement; (3) to serve as a warning to those engaged in similar illegal practices; and (4) to call the attention of the congress to the interpretation and application of anti-trust laws by the attorney general, as they may have a bearing upon contemplated legislation.

* * *

Looking Ahead.

THIS type of guide is the most truly serviceable. No hard and fast rules can be laid down as to what an industry may or may not do because of the wide variations in conditions surrounding each case.

To date we have made some progress. Statements have been given out with regard to:

1. Alleged violations of the anti-trust laws by automobile finance companies.
2. Opposition of the District of Columbia Medical society to the Group Health association.
3. Exhibitor-producer combinations in the motion picture industry.
4. Alleged milk price fixing in northern Illinois.

Intelligent men of all political parties agree that unless coercion and inflexible price structures by large organizations are ended, a greater degree of government control of business than anyone now dreams of is inevitable. Therefore, everyone who desires free industry must favor an anti-trust organization and enforcement policy adequate to meet the problem.

Timely Editorial

Bicycling Hazards.

It is hard to exaggerate the danger to which the bicyclist on the city street or highway exposes himself. This is true of the youngster who strides the seat and still more especially true is it if he is carrying a passenger on the handlebars.

Surely everyone knows that such traffic behavior is a violation of the law. Any boy who hooks his heel over the back bumper of an automobile in motion, or who permits his pal to double ride with him is gambling with two lives. It is one of the traffic violations deserving of police attention.

Although it is frequently a thankless job to rebuke a youngster who is furnishing these hazards to motorists as well as to himself, it is the part of good citizenship for anyone, police or civilian, to point out to thoughtless offenders the error of their way.

The reward may be a home saved from tragedy.—Columbus Dispatch.

Less Diplomatic With Mexico

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Executive Secretary Frederick J. Libby of the National Council for Prevention of War makes the point that Secretary of State Hull is decidedly more peremptory in demanding a settlement of American financial claims against Mexico than ever this government has been in its insistence upon an adjustment of Europe's enormous indebtedness to Uncle Samuel.

It is pretty hard to escape recognition of the accuracy of Pacifist Libby's contention.

The conclusion would seem to be that the United States thinks it can afford to be considerably less diplomatic with comparatively weak little Mexico than would be judicious with relatively powerful Britain, France, Italy and other overseas countries.

* * *

BULLYING ATTITUDE?

I don't mean to imply that Uncle Sam is physically afraid of Europe or that he has any notion of employing physical force against Mexico.

However, such a note as Secretary Hull recently sent to President Cardenas, in Mexico City, had it been sent to London, Paris or both, would have precipitated an international economic crisis with plenty of unpleasant Wall Street repercussions. But the state department can be quite sassy to Mexico, with no immediate danger of any repercussions whatever.

Our policy smacks slightly of a bullying attitude toward a small neighbor, in contrast with a much more discreet attitude toward stronger powers.

* * *

MEXICO'S ANSWER

Of course Mexico ought to settle up with Americans it owes money to, and it has been mightily slow in doing so.

But Europe ought to settle up, too—and is almost equally slow.

Moreover, Europe is uglier in its recalcitrancy than Mexico is.

Europe's position is, approximately, "Go to Hades!" when the U. S. hints at a debt settlement.

Mexico replies politely that it hasn't, as yet, got the money, but it agrees to dig it up as soon as it's available. It explains that it has been undergoing a period of great social reorganization, as yet unperfected, and it needs a bit more time to begin to liquidate it.

* * *

CARDENAS' MISTAKE

And then perhaps President Cardenas made the mistake of adding, in effect, "Your Roosevelt administration in the United States also is trying to put through a great social reform program north of the Rio Grande. You ought to have a certain amount of sympathy with ours, south of the big river."

This appears to have got Washington's goat.

Washington evidently doesn't want to be identified with Mexico's sort of social reform.

Mexico's kind, it's suspected, is communistic or Nazi-istic or Fascist or something. It dates back to the days of Pancho Villa. Washington is as "skeery" of it as it is of Stalin—whatever he may stand for.

* * *

ANOTHER SPAIN?

Pacifist Libby begs, "Don't let's start another Spain in Mexico!"

It's a possibility, with ultra-conservatism opposing ultra-radicalism. Such a struggle raged for two decades.

And all of Latin America was pro-Mexican liberalism. Not that Latin America is liberal. But Latin America is versus North American interference. And North American interference invariably has been on the conservative Latin American side.

Latin American liberality, traditionally has been anti-U. S. A.

But the Rooseveltian administration's policy of Pan-American brotherhood has "taken."

Bust it up by a clash with Mexico!—and see what?

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"That Stands Me Five Dollars."

One of the most idomatic expressions in the English language is the use of the verb "stand" in the sense of cost — "That stands me five dollars."

This bit of what might be termed fashionable slang stems straight from the Latin; the ancient Romans, in this instance, having recourse to the identical construction to signify expense.

The source is the verb constare meaning variously "to stand together or firm, to be settled or fixed, to stand at a price or cost."

Quite commonly, one Roman farmer would say to another:

"Illud mihi tribus pecudibus constitit."

It meant literally: "That stood me three cows."

TODAY IN HISTORY

The U. S. Navy dirigible Shenandoah was shattered by a thunder squall while passing over Ava, Ohio on Sept. 3, 1925, fourteen members of the crew, including Lieut. Com. Zachary Lansdowne, being killed.

What's Happened?

Week-End Summary of Current Events.

ELLISON DU RANT SMITH, a preacher's son, now 74, was nominated for the U. S. senate 30 years ago by the largest vote that ever had been given for that office in South Carolina. Having held the job ever since, he is the dean of Democratic senators.

By his own estimate, he has supported 80 per cent of the New Deal's bills, but he fought the Roosevelt court proposal, was frowned on by the president, and was confronted in this week's primary by a 100 per cent New Dealer, strapping, youthful Gov. Olin D. Johnston.

The renomination of Smith was the big event in South Carolina's primary. The New Deal was not an issue in the five congressional contests, nor in the gubernatorial race.

California Contests.

Anti-New Dealers rejoiced and turned to returns from California, where the president's friend, William Gibbs McAdoo, as old and as famous as Smith, was seeking renomination to the senate.

McAdoo lost to Sheridan Downey, 54, eloquent San Francisco lawyer, who had not opposed him on the New Deal issue but had advocated a $30-every-Thursday pension plan which the president and McAdoo disapproved.

And, in a nutshell, this is the pension plan that figured in this campaign: (1) The state would issue $30 in scrip to every non-working Californian more than 50 years old every week. (2) A 2-cent state tax stamp would have to be affixed to each $1 piece of scrip every week. (3) The stamps would be sold by the state, and the money would be used to redeem the scrip 52 weeks after it was issued.

Winners in other California contests were: For the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, Culbert Olson; for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, Gov. Frank F. Merriam. For the Republican senatorial nomination, Philip Bancroft, a militant rancher, and Ray L. Riley, a veteran state official, ran a see-saw race.

Score to Date.

Smith was the fourth Democratic senator nominated thus far this year despite differences with the administration. Others were Clark of Missouri, Van Nuys of Indiana and Gillette of Iowa.

McAdoo was the second to lose despite open administration approval. His predecessor in such defeat, Pope of Idaho, thought for a while of running as an independent this fall but this week decided not to.

On to Maryland.

In Texas Democratic congressional runoffs last week-end, the president's friend, Rep. W. D. McFarlane lost to Ed Gossett, 36. And Lindley Beckworth, 26, defeated Brady Gentry in the race for Rep. Morgan Sanders' seat.

On Labor Day, Mr. Roosevelt is scheduled to speak in Maryland. There, Sen. Millard E. Tydings' forces appealed this week for voters to resist "federal invasion," and Rep. David J. Lewis, the president's choice in the Democratic senatorial race, retorted: "The constitution guarantees every citizen the right of ingress and egress into and from every state and guarantees him freedom of speech."

Tydings also told a campaign audience that, during the court bill debate last summer, the administration had offered to accept a compromise if Chief Justice Hughes would resign from the supreme court.

At Home

The Hines Trial.

For three weeks, New York's front pages have been divisible into three parts: Foreign affairs, politics and the Hines trial.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey has been trying to convince a jury that James J. Hines, a Tammany district leader, once was put on a "policy" racket mob's payroll at $500 to $1,000 a week to "fix" judges and "break" policemen.

Witnesses this week included John F. Curry, ex-chief of Tammany, who told the jury how Hines could have "busted" zealous policemen if he had tried.

Then Dewey put J. Richard ("Dixie") Davis, 32, disbarred lawyer known as "the kid mouthpiece" of the policy rackets, on the stand. He was considered the prosecution's most important witness.

Blandly he conceded that he had committed perjury "many times," but went on to testify that he had visited Hines' home with the mob's leader, and that he had paid Hines approximately $40,000 as political "fixer" for the gang between October, 1932, and July, 1935.

"Mostly Hines asked for the money," Davis related, "and I had orders . . . to give him whatever he asked for, within a reasonable limit. I understood the limit was fixed at $1,000 a time."

Davis also recounted election stories which—if true—have affected not only Hines' chances for liberty, but in the past also have influenced the political fates of the judge and prosecutor of this trial.

Police raids, while all this was taking place in the courtroom, indicated that policy gambling still flourished both in New York and Chicago.

* * *

Eats and Sweeps.

Mudianna Esto, 63, of Aliquippa, Pa., applied for relief two months ago. He gets $3.60 a week now, and voluntarily sweeps the street in his neighborhood six hours a day.

"They give me money to live," he explains. "I keep this town clean like table. This is a wonderful country."

* * *

Economic War.

Secretary Wallace calls export subsidies a "type of economic warfare." But, he told Canadians last week-end, circumstances justify America's waging that kind of war to hold its foreign markets.

This week the war started: The government bought the first of 100,000,000 bushels of U. S. wheat it expects to sell to foreigners at a loss.

And farm prices, lowest in four years, turned upward on news that the government would loan farmers about 5 to 10 cents a pound on new cotton and 57 cents a bushel on corn.

* * *

Two Sharp Tongues.

Interior Secretary Ickes, home from Alaska, and Virginia's Sen. Carter Glass did their bit this week to enliven political news—Ickes by calling Glass typical of "political hypocrites that bite the hand that feeds them," and Glass by retorting that Ickes has become "a confirmed blackguard, saturated with hate for every member of congress who voted against spendthrift practices of the New Deal authorities.

* * *

Cruelty.

Four convicts died in adjoining cells of the Philadelphia county prison last week. The coroner said they had been "baked to death" by steam radiators in their cells. At the inquest, this week, the warden blamed one guard for turning the heat on and another for not turning it off.

Abroad

Behind the Front.

Chinese irregulars slipped into Shanghai last Monday night, set fire to a bridge, hoisted their flag on a golf course—and slipped away before Japanese soldiers could catch them. That was a sample of the war-behind-the-front which Chinese now hope will lick Japan.

Japan's main invading army, meanwhile, threw the full force of its warplanes, tanks, big guns and infantry into the push up the Yangtse river.

* * *

Fireworks at Sea.

Like a Fourth of July crowd watching fireworks from a grandstand, thousands perched on the Rock of Gibraltar one night last week-end and watched four Franco warships shoot up a Spanish government destroyer. Barely floating, the destroyer got away at dawn with 20 of her crew dead and six lost overboard.

On land, in Spain's civil war this week, the government said its troops had blocked an insurgent thrust toward the Almaden mercury mines in the southwest.

Labor

A Strike—Maybe.

Nineteen U. S. railroad unions this week ordered a strike ballot among 929,000 workers after wage dispute mediation efforts failed at Chicago. But a strike is unlikely until Dec. 1 at the earliest—delays, arbitration and investigation moves being required by law.

* * *

Bump, Bump!

One freight car, bumped around San Francisco's warehouse district, had spread paralysis, by this week, to more than 150 industrial plants. CIO warehousemen, contending strikebreakers had loaded the car, refused to unload it. Employers, denying that the men who loaded it were strikebreakers, discharged warehousemen for refusing to unload it—and closed up shop.

Travel

Faster and Faster.

Major Alexander P. de Seversky, airplane designer, flew from New York to Los Angeles on Monday this week in 10 hours, three minutes, seven seconds. That was faster than anybody ever made it before.

Capt. George E. T. Eyston, of England, averaged 345.49 miles an hour in his "Thunderbolt" over two miles of Utah's Bonneville salt flats last week-end. That was faster than anybody ever drove a car before.

* * *

Aviation's Week.

Britain's four-motored "Albatross" broke in two during final tests before it was to begin transatlantic air service this month. . . . Germany announced its new zeppelin, successor to the burned Hindenburg, would make its trial cruise this week.

* * *

Reports.

The National Safety Council reported a 22 per cent drop from last year in U. S. auto deaths for the first seven months of 1938 . . . Secretary of Interior Ickes, after a trip to Alaska: "Literally everybody up there is plying the natives with liquor."

Hattery, Marion avenue. Her wedding took place at one of the most brilliant social functions in several years, and her gown was a lovely one of lace over ivory satin. The Siegenthalers left after the formal dinner for a Bermuda honeymoon.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"DO—WITH Phil—Veritzen—with Phil Veritzen — when he lands here—?"

I was conscious that I was inanely babbling the repetition of the astonishing words Lillian had just spoken.

She gave an amused chuckle, and the sound did more to bring me back to sane thinking than an hour's homily.

"I don't wonder you're upset," she said indulgently, "but you shouldn't be surprised. You've 'ways known, as I have, that Phil Veritzen is there with the little brain cells. He may not find out right away that Harry and I were the humble instruments in whisking his royal protegees away from his loving care. but it's a cinch that he'll 'dedooce,' as Katie says, your father's footprints in the affair, and having done that, he'll be reasonably sure that the farm has been selected as a sanctuary."

Due at Any Time.

"And knowing that," I said slowly, "we may expect him down here—"

I left the sentence trailing in the air, and Lillian finished it for me.

"At any minute, if not sooner," she said smiling. "It all depends on how long it will take him to charter a plane."

"A plane?" I repeated, and then nodded comprehendingly.

"Yes, that's what he would do," I said. "But—that means—he may indeed be here at any minute. I'll have to see about beds, for I imagine he'll bring Noel with him, don't you think so?"

"Of course," he answered, "but equally, of course, you need make no arrangements for entertaining the Veritzen men, not matter how much more hospitable instincts go haywire. In the first place, your father wouldn't want them cluttering up the landscape, else he would have planned for them—that man never had an inadvertent moment in his life—and in the second place—well! there doesn't need to be any second. The first reason is enough."

"Yes," I nodded acquiescently, but I could not help the feeling that there had been another reason on the brink of, her lips which she had decided at the last second to keep to herself.

"But," I substituted stubbornly an instant later, "how am I going to get out of asking them? Dicky or Mother Graham will do it if I don't. We can't appear inhospitable."

"But I can," she said with decision. "I can be the most diabolical crab in existence if I have to be, and where Phil Veritzen is concerned, it will be a pleasure to double for a crustacean. As for Noel, as long as Mary isn't in the offing, it doesn't matter to him where he parks his hat and topcoat. So if you'll leave it to me, I'll see to it that Papa Veritzen doesn't mistake the farmhouse for a hotel, no matter how many invitations you hand out on a silver salver."

"Oh," I sighed with gusty relief, "if you'll talk to him, everything will be all right, and I can give him the perfunctory invitation to make the farm his headquarters, which he will expect."

"As I told you before, little one," she said, smiling, "give him a dozen, if you like. I'll attend to him. By the time I get through with him, he'll be glad to find a hotel if for nothing else save to get rid of the sound of my voice.

"To do the old devil justice," she went on, "he always prefers to stay at a hotel if he can find one to suit him, and there are two or three within a radius of 20 miles which would please even his fastidious tastes. There's only one thing which may make him stubborn, and that is his cockeyed craving to have himself and Noel play the roles of lords-in-waiting to royalty."

The sounds of the telephone, always an imperative one to me, shrilled in our ears. Lillian rose abruptly from her chair.

"I'll lay you five cookies to a piece of pie that's tidings of Phil now," she said.

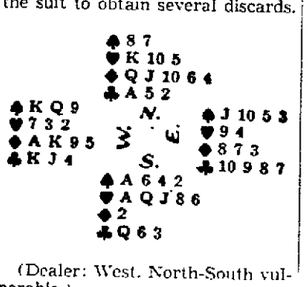
"The Authority on Authorities"

WELL WORTH THE COST

WHEN DECLARER is void of the suit in which dummy has a string of secondary honors, he wishes the player at his right had the higher one which is out against him. In that event, he could capture it with a ruffing finesse. When the man at his left has the big card, no such play is possible. It may be worth while, at that, to let him win a trick so as to set up the suit to obtain several discards.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

On this deal, West started the bidding with 1-Diamond and North and East passed After a 1-Heart bid by South, West passed and North called 1-No Trump. South then bid 3-Hearts and North went to 4-Hearts.

West cashed the diamond K and switched to the spade K. Declarer won with the A and immediately gave up a spade to West, who returned a trump. South won with the J and ruffed a spade. He then ruffed a diamond to get back to his hand for another spade ruff. After drawing trumps, he lost two clubs, and was set one trick.

A better play would have been to lead to the heart 10 and play the diamond Q, tossing a club. If West held off, the suit should have been continued, and another club gotten rid of. The diamond 10 would then have provided a spot to discard one spade with the club A as an entry to it.

SPINSTER PARTY GIVEN FOR MISS ZIMMERMAN

Bride-Elect Whose Wedding Takes Place Tomorrow Is Honored by Two Bridal Attendants at Murphy Home.

A SPINSTER PARTY last night climaxed a series of parties that have been given for Miss Janet Zimmerman, whose marriage to Gordon Lysinger, Detroit, will take place at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at South Main Street Evangelical church.

The party was given by her two bridal attendants, Miss Evelyn Murphy and Mrs. Raymond Beal, at the Murphy home, 28 Myers avenue.

There were 15 friends of the bride-elect at the party and they spent the evening making a bride's book for her, beginning with her babyhood and bringing it up to the announcement of her forthcoming marriage.

A two course luncheon was an enjoyable feature of the evening. It was served at a long table arranged with garden flowers and reflecting the colors which will be used in the wedding tomorrow, orchid poms, blue delphiniums and pink astors. Individual baskets of flowers of the same colors were favors, and the honor guest was presented with a corsage.

During the evening she was presented with a shower of personal gifts and wedding gifts from her hostess, which were a set of Fiesta ware and a stain comforter.

MAYFLOWER GUILD MEETS.

Nineteen members and two guests, Mrs. W. C. Neiberger and Mrs. Arthur Hursh, attended the meeting of the Mayflower Guild yesterday at the home of Mrs. Ora Dysart, 111 Glenn avenue. Associate hostesses were Mrs. Joseph Mace and Mrs. Zella Miller. After a program and contests, refreshments were served, and a gift was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Dysart who celebrated their 41st wedding anniversary yesterday. On Oct. 7 the group meets again with Mrs. Leo Brewer, 614 Arlington avenue.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Sept. 4.

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is a very happy one for affairs of a social, domestic or sentimental character. It also is very encouraging for those seeking honors, favors or preferment at the hands of superiors, employers or those in authority. And while there may be many friendly contacts, there might be one false slip causing anxiety.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very lively year, with important events, probably of a sudden and surprising nature, forecast. These may involve careful dealings with major corporations or influential persons.

A child born on this day may be particularly able, enterprising, adventurous and ambitious, and should rise to place and power, probably through its independence, craft, shrewdness and diplomacy. Its career may be eventful.

* * *

For Monday, Sept. 5.

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is for a very lively state of affairs, with much mental stimulus and unusual activity in social, romantic or artistic pursuits. All cultural matters, particularly those related to writing, publishing, publicity and invention, and other creative work which might have as its source a mystical or psychological inspiration, should thrive.

Those whose birthday it is may count on a very lively year in all intellectual or cultural pursuits. The feminine influence is to be reckoned with, possibly as a spiritual force or creative stimulus, since there are signs of mystical urges as well as inventive and original leads to genius.

A child born on this day may be endowed with a rather unusual nature, with much latent talent for creative work in uncommon lines, scientific, intellectual or cultural.

For Tuesday, September 6.

A rather intriguing day is read from the governing stars. Matters may prove to be under an atmosphere of subdued excitement or a peculiar sense of repression owing to rather subtle undercurrents. This may be due to a vivid imagination, to emotional urges or may even be prompted by some rather singular or mystifying correspondence with a woman.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of rather peculiar or unusual experiences that may prove intriguing or mystifying because of subtle or inexplicable elements. This might have to do entirely with intellectual, mental or psychic processes or studies.

Bible Studied When Club Meets

Mrs. D. W. Cummins, Park avenue west, was hostess yesterday to nine members of the Neighborhood Bible club and eight guests at the Women's Club.

Her guest were Mrs. Roy Seaton, Mrs. V. D. Coe, Mrs. G. J. Kochenderfer, Mrs. A. B. M. White, Mrs. C. E. Palmer, Mrs. Earl Sawhill, Mrs. F. M. Smith, and Mrs. Gracie Huffman of Loudonville.

Devotions were read by Mrs. Carl Walker and Mrs. Jay Swigart, president of the club, presided during the study hour when the subject was the first book of Acts.

The club will meet again on Sept. 16 with Mrs. Walker, on Hoffman avenue. At that time Mrs. C. H. Henkel will lead the study and Mrs. George Hoover the devotions.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Miss Betty Flegal, 22 Swanger avenue, was honored on her 13th birthday yesterday when her mother, Mrs. W. P. Flegal, gave a surprise party for her. Bingo and contests were played and prize winners were Jacqueline Bailey, Ruth LeMunyon. and Mildred Matz. A Farmer's Diary

The Humming Bird's Nest.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I FOLLOWED up a hollow that had been made by the constant flowing of a small, secluded spring. Along the border stood tall; slender walnut trees, and farther up, a clump of wild plum bushes. Above the spring, a large old willow stood. Short, yellow sprouts emerged from a bud upon its trunk.

Here, upon a high cluster of stems, I saw a tiny nest...so small indeed that it might have been mistaken for an abandoned cocoon. I was disturbed with the joy of adventure, and took three stones of two flat surfaces, and placed one upon the other, until by standing on the topmost, my eyes were even with the edge.

The outside was closely woven, with small blades of grass and what appeared like silken fiber. At even spaces, small blotches of many-colored lichens, with varied, tiny, brilliant silver spots, decorated cleverly the whole outside surface.

It was the dainty home of the ruby throated humming bird. I saw the lovely little mother flying nervously about. With my face at a distance of two feet, I cautiously stood on tiptoe, and caught a glimpse of two, fuzzy, longbeaked, sleeping birds. It was a precious moment, for I had never looked into such a nest before.

Carefully I dismounted from the heap of stones, and threw them to different places in the brush, then hid myself behind a neighboring tree and waited for the tiny bird's return. Five long minutes passed before I heard the humming of her wings, and saw her alight. The youngsters moved eagerly and opened their long, slender beaks. The mother placed her bill inside the baby's mouth and disgorged her crop of nectar. So neatly and so daintily she did this, that not the most refined observer could take offense.

When autumn comes, and summer flocks migrate, the cunning ruby throat will hide its tiny body in the plumage of some larger bird, and hitchhike in safety and comfort to the southland.

CHAPTER 33.

Noel knew that doctors could not be depended on to keep an engagement right to the minute. She had waited an hour for Julian, but she intended to wait a while longer. Something had delayed him, but she still believed he would be here.

Now and then Noel saw Laurie cast an anxious eye at her. She managed to smile back confidently. But she wasn't feeling so confident after all, and she didn't intend to wait more than a few minutes longer.

She ordered a cup of coffee to pass the time. It was very hot, so she let it cool. But it hurt her throat when she tried to swallow it, and she finally pushed it away.

Noel couldn't help asking herself two questions: Wasn't Julian coming at all? And if not, didn't he have the decency to let her know?

* * *

At last she couldn't stand it any longer. She rose and went up to the register, laying a nickel down with her check.

"Listen, Noel," Laurie said in a low voice, "wait just a little while longer. Something's happened, but he'll be here. I'm sure of it."

Suddenly they both saw Ruth Chester walking across the street. She came into the cafe, looked around, then saw Noel at the register. At once she walked over to her.

"Doctor Paige asked me to tell you that he was very sorry but it was impossible for him to keep his engagement."

Noel looked at her coolly. "Did he give any reason?"

Ruth Chester's dark brows were slightly elevated. "No, he didn't. He merely said to tell you he was sorry."

"Thank you very much, Miss Chester," Noel said then.

"Don't mention it," Ruth Chester returned coolly as she turned and went out, crossing the street again to the Medical Arts.

"She might have added that 'the pleasure was all hers'," Laurie scoffed. "I know good and well she never gave anybody a message she enjoyed more."

Noel merely gave a little shrug. "Guess I might as well be on my way."

"Listen, Noel," Laurie said earnestly. "I'll bet you anything that Doctor Paige asked her to let you know fully an hour and a half ago. He even may have asked her to phone you before you left the house."

"He may have," Noel answered. It was entirely possible that Ruth Chester had taken a malicious delight in letting her sit here and wait for Julian so long.

"She's a darn little cat, if you're asking me," Laurie said indignantly.

"I'm afraid she is, darling," Noel said wearily.

She left the cafe and walked listlessly up Madison toward Main. The sun had gone behind a cloud, which somehow gave the world a much grayer look than it had had before. Very fitting, Noel thought.

She kept walking on, not knowing where she would go, or what she would do.

The next thing she knew, she and Chris almost walked into each other. Chris drew back, saying "Sorry." Then he saw it was Noel, and gave a low whistle. "Why Miss Doran, fancy meeting you here!" He added, "I suppose you are on your way to your luncheon date?"

"I—" Noel hesitated. A flush came into her face. "As a matter of fact," she went on, "my—er—date didn't materialize."

"Good—then you can go with me," Chris exclaimed, taking her arm. "That is, we can have lunch together. Afterwards I've got an appointment with Carey. I say, this is luck—meeting you like this."

* * *

Noel was thinking. She and Chris would go to some nice place, and Chris would order a lovely lunch. And there'd probably be music. And while she wouldn't be able to eat very much, she'd probably lose this cold, lonely feeling which seemed to be clamped like a vice around her heart.

So Chris took her to another arty litle place, very Bohemian and informal, where he said a lot of writers and artistic people went. There was music. And Noel's heart began lifting a little at a time until she almost was able to laugh with real spontaneity.

Chris said, "You're always happy with me, aren't you?"

Noel smiled. "I like being with you. I think you're good for my soul." But when she said that, Noel felt that she had used the wrong word. Chris was good for her ego, her poor vanity, which was always suffering a little because of Julian's indifference.

"Well then, listen," Chris was saying, "I'm not going to take no for an answer. I'm willing to wait, as I told you. But we couldn't be so happy together if we didn't have a lot in common. Some day you'll love me, Noel. You'll just have to."

Noel felt tears welling up. Chris was such a dear. But she couldn't give him any false encouragement, so she said, her voice a little choky, "Chris, you deserve the best. I — couldn't give it you."

He grew a little pale, but his eyes were still warm and tender. "Anyway I'm still going to wait. And I'm not going to let you say you won't go to Hollywood. But I know I'll be frightfully jealous of all the men out there who will want to make love to you."

"I wouldn't want them to," Noel answered, and added, "most probably they wouldn't anyway."

"Listen, sweetheart," Chris said earnestly, "I know Hollywood. You'll be a sensation." He stopped, then added with a smile, "That's why I'm trying to get in my claim first."

* * *

When they finished lunch and Chris had to go, he said that Breton would have his decision ready by late afternoon. "And it's going to be you. I'm simply positive of that."

Noel looked at him earnestly. "Chris, promise me you won't be too disappointed if—if I decide I can't go."

"I can't do that," Chris said huskily.

Noel looked down at her hands. She still hadn't the faintest idea whether she would accept the Hollywood offer or not, that is, if Carey Breton decided she was the one.

"You're going," Chris said then, giving her a little emphasizing tap on the arm. Then he was gone.

Noel walked over to Front street park, not having anything else to do, and sat down on a bench, gazing out over the river and at Mud island, which several years ago had risen out of the water in a single night. It was grown up now with small reed-like trees. People all over town made jokes about Mud island. Someone was always saying he was going over there and homestead, for nobody knew to whom the island belonged. Also it might at any minute disappear into the river as suddenly as it had appeared over the water's edge.

After about an hour, Noel decided she might as well go on home. Laurie would be there soon, if she were not there by now. They might take in a movie or something.

* * *

Afterwards, Noel was very, very glad she had decided to go home. For Laurie was there with news. Julian had come to the De Luxe at 2 o'clock, and had been waiting there since. Once he came up to the register and asked Laurie if she thought Noel was going to keep her engagement. She told him that Noel had been there and waited until 11:30. Then Julian said he had had an emergency but he had asked Miss Chester to come over at once and tell Noel that he would join her at 2, if she wouldn't mind coming back.

So Ruth Chester had lied again!

In another minute Noel was dusting her face with powder, straightening her hair, all with Laurie's eager help, and on her way to the De Luxe, hoping against hope that Julian was still there.

COFFMAN BOYS GO OFF RELIEF; BUDGE TO HEAD RADIO SHOW.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—Well, readers, our chances of getting off to a one, two start in the Davis Cup matches don't look so hot, what with the draw coming out as it did. . . . If they let Tony Canzoneri and Barney Ross fight again somebody ought to be arrested. . . . Our nomination for the best major league managerial job of the season goes to smart old Bill McKechnie out in Cincy. This weather we're having up here turns one's thoughts to hot dogs and flying footballs. . . . It won't be long now.

Mike Jacobs

The Coffman boys have gone off relief. . . . A few days ago Dick of the Giants started his first game of the season after more than 40 relief appearances and Thursday Brother George of the Tigers made his first start. . . . Don Budge has signed to headline the "For Men Only" air show next Wednesday night.

Cincinnati has nine more games with Pittsburgh and if the Reds get that pitching ——! . . . Tommy Farr's refusal to fight Gunnar Barlund unless he was guaranteed a shot at Joe Louis if he won may cost him plenty. . . . Mike Jacobs is just about ready to rule Tommy out of the heavyweight picture. . . . Bill Ware, sports editor of the Cincinnati radio station, suggests a world's fair game between the all time greats developed by Connie Mack and the 1938 world's champs. . . . One of the boys to keep an eye on in the middle west this year is Lyle Rockenbach, left guard at Michigan State. . . .He can do the 100-meters in 10.7 and will be ripe for plucking for the pros even if he doesn't make the All-America.

If the Pirates crash into the world series the odds against them would be 14 to 5 in James J. Carroll's big St. Louis book. . . . Next month's Army-Notre Dame game here is a sell-out. . . . Don Miguel (Mike to you) Jacobs introduces jai alai, said to be the world's fastest sport, to New Yorkers next week. . . . Who can run down a report we have that Horton Smith will quit golfing and go in the sporting goods business before the end of the year?

Minnesota Eleven Thunders Again.

MINNESOTA'S squad this year will be patterned after the old Thundering Herd model. . . . A regular bone crusher. . . . Over in Newark they have a 15-year-old golfer who fires consistently in the 70's. . . . If any college is interested in a 1941 star, we can give it the dope.

Dr. Carey Crowned Champion

Zanesville Veteran Finishes Two Strokes in Front of Ohio Seniors' Field.

DR. D. E. CAREY, a Zanesville dentist, was crowned champion of the 11th annual Ohio Seniors' golf tournament which came to a close at the Westbrook Country club yesterday.

Dr. Carey, who shot pairs of 85's in the two preceding tournaments, added an 80 to the 77 registered Thursday to succeed E. W. Phelps of Kansas City as champion with a 157 total.

Edges Clevelander.

The Zanesville veteran shot more consistant golf yesterday than he did on the opening day to edge R. P. Balph of Cleveland by the margin of two strokes.

Breaking a tournament record with a 10-putt 35 Thursday, Dr. Carey fashioned a 41 and a 39 yesterday to assure himself of the title.

Balph, tied with Floyd Hull of Zanesville for second place with 78's yesterday, compiled an 81 from rounds of 41 and 40 to forfeit his chance to overtake Dr. Carey.

Hull cracked in the final half of the match yesterday to finish well behind Dr. Carey and Balph with a 168. He posted a 90.

J. H. Watters of Marion and F. H. Pelton of Cleveland, 1935-36 champion, carded 163's to finish in a tie for third place. Watters rolled out the lowest score of the final day when he cracked a 79. Pelton took an 82.

Next high in the scoring were A. I. Davey of Mansfield and H. D. Smith of Cadiz, who came through with 164's. W. B. Foden of Cleveland, N. M. West of Cleveland and F. B. Fultz of Cleveland scored identical 166's to tie for the next position.

E. C. Edwards of Toledo followed with a 167, and Hull was tied at 168 by Ed Kibler of Newark.

American Hopes in Singles of Davis Cup Play.

GERMANTOWN, Pa. — (U.P.) — The battle for the Davis Cup, which only a few months ago involved a score of nations, today was narrowed down to two forces and a patch of velvety turf, 27 feet by 78 feet.

It was the United States, holder of the cup that determines amateur tennis supremacy, against Australia, challenger, in a week-end of four singles and one doubles engagements. The two countries have met eight times in the show-down round and each holds four victories.

Today's rubber match at the Germantown Cricket club will be opened with two singles skirmishes. In the first Bobby Riggs of Chicago meets Adrian Quist, from Melbourne. In the second, Don Budge, the world's greatest amateur and No. 1 wherever the game is played, comes to grips with Jack Bromwich, the tennis eccentric from Sydney.

Doubles will be played tomorrow with Budge teaming with Gene Mako against Quist and either Bromwich or Harry Hopman, the Australian team captain. On Monday, the final day of the best three of five match battle, the opening day singles assignments will be reversed.

Only one more week of play remains in The News-Journal Women's golf league, but the outcome of the championship race is doubtful.

Following yesterday's postponed matches at Possum Run, the pacesetting Strome Grocers continued to lead the field by only two points, with the Liberty Shoes second. The Bates Candies and Marks' Market are tied for third place, six points behind the leaders.

Vera Oberlander poked out the low medal score of yesterday when she shot an 89 to lead the Liberty team to a 3 to 1 victory over the Bates Candies. Harriett Roth won the only point for the Candies with a 91, the second low score of the day. Elsie Staiger of the Shoes and Alice Byrnes of the Candies shot 94's.

The Market and Grocery teams battled to a 1 to 1 tie, two of the four matches being postponed.

Golf Finals Scheduled Over Holiday Week-end

Possum Run to Pick Champ Sunday, While Westbrook Finalists Vie Monday.

CHAMPIONSHIPS of two Mansfield golf courses will be decided over the holiday week-end.

Al Kushin and Pete Linster will battle over the 36-hole route Sunday to determine the Possum Run crown, and Paul Auxter and Bobby Moorhead will meet at Westbrook Country club Monday. Both matches are scheduled to get under way around 9 a. m.

Speculation as to the outcome of these two titular affairs is rife, with all finalists having their army of followers.

Kushin and Linster should stage a sensational battle at Possum Run. Both have been shooting par golf all season, and it would be impossible to establish a favorite on their play this season.

The two survivors also waded through strong opponents to reach the finals, Kushin beating his own brother, Carl, the 1937 champion, in the semi-finals.

Labor day will mark the first appearance of Moorhead in the Westbrook finals, but he has rated as one of the leading shotmakers out there for several years.

Auxter, too, has been a perennial contender, and two years ago was a finalist.

Auxter and Moorhead will meet in a tournament match for the second time Monday. Two years ago the two battled in a semi-final match, with the honors going to Auxter on the last hole.

The finals in the Coolridge tournament will not be played until a week from next Sunday, according to present plans. Steve Stirtzinger defeated James Carse, 5 and 4, this week, to go into the finals. His opponent will be determined by the semi-final match between Tony Schadek and Clare Bell, who were scheduled to play today.

* * *

ALL Mansfield courses plan special programs for their members on Labor day, with Westbrook Country club offering the heaviest bill. Westbrook will stage mixed two-ball and six-hole blind medal tournaments and driving and putting contests for both men and women golfers.

"Blind bogeys" are on the Coolridge schedule for Sunday and Monday. Possum Run will stage a "blind bogey" affair Monday.

FIELD GOAL WINS FOR RAM GRIDDERS

Champs Meet League Stars In Two Games

Johns Park's City Class A league softball champions will be confronted by a couple of tough assignments over the holiday week-end.

The Johnnies will meet an all-star team selected from the outstanding players in the circuit at League park at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, and they will meet again at 5:30 p. m. Monday in the sports feature of the Labor day celebration at North park.

Frank Balbaugh has been named manager of the all-star team, and among the players he has secured for the games are Musille, Judy, Stickler, Frisbee, Forman, Schaeffer, Bosko, Fogle, Channell, Geiger, Henrich and Vogel.

Flag Jitters Affect Bucs

Pittsburgh Drops 11 to 10 Game to Cards.

NEW YORK—William Harold Terry, cheerless leader of the New York Giants, who turned prophet the other day and awarded the National league pennant to the Pittsburgh Pirates may have spoken too soon just as he did back in 1934 when he asked, "is Brooklyn still in the league?"

"Vinegar Bill" should know as anybody does that a 6½ game lead in early September doesn't mean a pennant. The Giants blew a lead larger than that in 1934. When Brooklyn helped back off the Terrymen while the Cardinals roared down the stretch to the championship.

The Pirates again are showing symptoms of another siege of "pennant jitters."

The club that looks most dangerous is Cincinnati. They have nine games remaining with the Pirates, including a 4-game series at home to close the season. The Reds look like they are gathering steam. Johnny Vander Meer, of no-hit fame, has recovered from his ear infection and will return to duty soon. Charley (Red) Barrett, the crooning pitcher recalled from Syracuse, promises to give the Reds added strength on the basis of his night victory over Brooklyn Wednesday.

Pittsburgh put on a good imitation of a team with the shakes by blowing a 11-10 game yesterday to the Cardinals.

Peterson's Boot Gives Pros 10 to 7 Victory Over Ohio All-Stars.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — The national professional football league today ruled supreme here—by the narrow margin of three points.

For the Cleveland Rams last night scored a last-minute field goal to defeat the Ohio College All-Stars 10 to 17, in a charity game at Lakefront Stadium.

Climaxes Tussle.

Nelson Peterson, a little known halfback, saved the game for the Professionals when he kicked the ball 22 yards for the winning score. The Rams' earlier touchdown was made in the third period when a 71-yard drive was climaxed by an end sweep over the goal. Bob Davis, the Kentucky star, made the touchdown and kicked the goal.

The brilliant playing of Jim McDonald, former Ohio State back who starred three days ago in the Chicago All-Star game, Frank (Doc) Kelker, the Dover boy who starred at Western Reserve, and Marty Slovak, of Toledo University, made the All-Stars the better team through much of the game.

It was Slovak who intercepted a pass in the second period and raced 52 yards for the touchdown, and it was McDonald who kicked the goal. Kelker contributed another of the stellar performances that made him one of the finest defensive ends in the country when he played for the Red Cats.

The All-Stars seemed much the better team throughout the first half, and it was not until the Rams started their scoring drive in the third that they looked like a national league outfit.

McDonald, who was the property of the Rams but was sold to the Detroit Lions, was the spark plug of the team. On both the defensive and the offensive, he was a thorn in the side of the professional team.

Plays Despite Injury.

Bob Snyder, former Ohio University back, played for the Rams in spite of a back injury that kept him out of practice. Snyder, Ed Goddard, Carl Littlefield, Johnny Drave and Davis starred in the Ram backfield, but it was Peterson, formerly of the Washington Redskins and West Virginia Wesleyan, who saved the day with his perfect boot. Stan Pincura, of Lorain, called the play and held the ball.

MERCHANTS INVADE JOHNSVILLE SUNDAY

Pete Metz's Mansfield Merchants will meet Johnsville at the Pines at 2:30 p. m. Sunday. Remy or Knackstedt will hurl for the Merchants, with Scott or Schaffer the likely Johnsville choice.

Tygermen Continue to Display Improvement

MANSFIELD high school's football team is still a question mark, but Coach Russ Murphy was more optimistic today over the 1938 prospects than at anytime since the last campaign was climaxed.

Due to the inexperience of the team as a whole, Murphy is not over-enthusiastic over the club's possibilities, but, nevertheless, he was more cheerful today than any day since practice got under way.

No scrimmages have been held as yet, but the club has functioned well enough in the preliminary drills to indicate a possibility of developing into a dangerous touchdown machine.

Murphy and his assistant, Harry Mehock, sent the Tyger aspirants through a fast drill that accomplished much in determining the outstanding prospects yesterday.

Passing and kicking drills featured yesterday's workout, with Capt. Rich Nagle, Al Schwaner, Dick McMullen, Red LeMunyon, Ike Smith and Howard Hershey all showing possibilities as throwers. The best boots came from the toes of Nagle and Schwaner.

Jack Dugger, Bill Russell, Mike Horvath and Bob Brandenburg were on the receiving end of the throws, and handled the passes in mid-season form.

Murphy was pleased with the blocking execution of the linemen, and was particularly impressed with Joe Lehr, Jack Swartz, Bob Guegold, Russ Beer, Harold Gallagher, Dick White, and Ed Goettle.

Despite the fact that Monday is a holiday, the Tygers will hold a drill in the morning, Murphy said. Afternoon drills will get under way Wednesday when classes start.

MARKET ACTIVE IN PRE-HOLIDAY STOCK SESSION

Motors, Rails, Building Shares Show Gains as Mart Follows Course of Business.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — Stocks started strong and active today as shorts covered in advance of the Labor day holiday shutdown. Longs later realized profits and their selling reduced gains.

The market, relieved for the moment from the pressure of the European situation, was following the course of business, experts said. Major lines this week reported further gains.

Chrysler touched 75⅜, fell to 74½ and recovered to its high again. General Motors at its top of 48⅞ was up ⅝. Briggs Manufacturing sold at 36½ up 1 and Electric Auto Lite was up nearly a point.

Building issues enjoyed a good market with new highs in Holland Furnace, U. S. Gypsum, and Crane company.

Railroad shares were strong. Chesapeake & Ohio gained a point. Copper issues moved up small amounts. Oils improved and utilities were steady.

Amusements held recent gains. Aviation issues firmed.

THEATER

"Four's a Crowd."

A romantic comedy about a man who loves a girl who loves a man who loves another girl who isn't telling where she stands comes to the Ohio tonight at the midnight matinee, under the title of "Four's a Crowd." It sounds complicated, and it is, but after several reels of four young people getting into each other's hair and hearts, it ends in a clear-cut manner with the "crowd" paired off into twos for the remainder—supposedly — of their lives. Errol Flynn is a high-powered newspaper editor; Rosalind Russell is seen as a witty, as well as unusually good looking newspaper woman on the same paper; Olivia de-Havilland is a spoiled heiress to millions; while Patric Knowles is a handsome but rather useless playboy. It all ends in the office of a justice of the peace—and the justice is none other than Hugh Herbert—which should give you some idea.

* * *

"Boy Meets Girl."

One of the biggest comedy hits of the American stage in the last few years and one that played Mansfield as a stage show last season, returns to the Madison as a screen vehicle for James Cagney and Pat O'Brien, whose past appearances have been noted for their action and interest. In "Boy Meets Girl," a riotous comedy of Hollywood studios, Cagney and O'Brien play the two screwball scenario writers; Marie Wilson, a "find" of the season, plays Suzie, and Ralph Bellamy is seen as the producer. Dick Foran, who is one of the better known "singing cowboys" of filmdom, has the role of the movie cowboy. Frank McHugh rounds out the line-up of well known players. The action all takes place on a studio lot and in the offices of the company. The picture runs through Wednesday.

"Romance of Limberlost."

Suggested by Gene Stratton Porter's first best selling novel, "Girl of the Limberlost," a film entitled "Romance of the Limberlost," brings together little Jean Parker and Eric Linden in characters that are familiar to millions of American readers. It is a folk romance of the great timberlands that lie in the north of Indiana and which became famous through the Porter novels. In the second feature at the Majestic for the first two days of the week, Edith Fellows has her first emotional role, that of the urchin in "City Streets," with Leo Carrillo as her co-star. Edith is seen as a crippled orphan who finds shelter with the corner groceryman.

"Test Pilot."

For its double holiday show the Ritz presents one of the top pictures of the year, "Test Pilot," with Clark Gable, Myrna Loy and Spencer Tracy. A tremendously interesting story, clever dialogue and breath-taking action have gone into the production, with all three stars giving their best to their roles. The action revolves around two test pilots, one steady and dependable, the other wild and reckless; and a girl whose life swings from the utter quiet of a middle western farm to wild excitement after an airplane lands in her back yard. Lionel Barrymore heads the supporting cast. The picture runs through Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Ritz.

President's Stand on 'Liberals' Stirs Speculation

Not That It Matters

Monkey-Wrench Tossing Boomerangs Sometimes; Jesse James Influence

—By JANE WILLIAMS

THAT harsh, grating sound you heard this week was the result of a monkey wrench that had been thrown into state political machines. It was tossed in—hurled is a better word—by the president.

But while it made a loud noise, it didn't really do any damage, and voters in South Carolina and California ignored both the wrench and the man who had hurled it, by turning thumbs down on Roosevelt-favored candidates.

It is difficult to understand why the world "purge," which originated with Stalin and Hitler, should ever have found its way into the American vocabulary, but now that it's in—introduced by the Roosevelt apostles—it is just as well that Americans demonstrate once and for a long time, that it's a word that can work both ways.

A "purge" that boomerangs is quite likely to knock out the man who starts it.

* * *

THE president admits that he expected defeat in Carolina but was utterly surprised at the tremendous vote California gave to the pension plan man, who overrode three opponents, among them William McAdoo, favored by the New Deal administration.

But it was not particularly surprising to a great many persons who have watched the pension plan movement gathering momentum. A few years ago when Dr. Townsend first submitted his Plan to give all persons over 60 years of age $200 a month, he was regarded as something of a crackpot by the majority, because that plan represented figures that ran into billions and trillions—vague, unfamiliar figures to us then.

* * *

BUT the New Deal has given us a new familiarity with figures that were once something seen only in a school boy's arithmetic. And as we have come to toss off the words, "billion" and "million" with ease, so we have lost our ridicule and amusement at a big pension plan. With an unlimited deluge of money being poured out all around us, the pension plans seem far less ridiculous. It's perfectly natural that with money being spent like water, and with the depression increasing and the future more uncertain all of the time, the average man and woman turn to some promise of a security in their middle and old age.

The general pension plan is entirely in keeping with New Dealism, and if the latter survives, the former certainly will be tried out.

* * *

THE deep pastoral quiet of the Ozarks in southern Missouri has been shattered and the little mountain town of Pineville is seething with such excitement as it hasn't known since its most illustrious citizen got shot in the back.

There descended on Pineville last week a crew of motion picture workers, technicians, writers, directors and actors who will make a picture right in their midst, glorifying the life and exploits of that same citizen, Jesse James. Jesse, you see, looms up rather nobly to us who have just gone through the Al Capone and Dutch Schultz eras.

* * *

The citizenry of Pineville and McDonald county turned out almost enmasse to offer its services as "extras" for the picture, and most of the masculine contingent had let its beards grow in anticipation of contributing to the culture of the cinema. The only citizens who were disinterested in a movie career were the WPA workers who quite properly refuse.. to risk a sure thing for a few months in the movies. The most envied woman in the Ozark county is the one at whose home Tyrone Power will board and room. The nicely mannered, gentle Mr. Power is to play—don't snicker—America's most notable badman and outlaw.

In fact, so deeply has Pineville been influenced by the spirit of Jesse James, that there have been a couple of robberies there already.

* * *

IN Germany the government has ruled that it is dishonorable to buy anything that you could just as easily steal from a Jewish store.

Which is something like the American attitude toward the national treasury — anything that you can beg, borrow or steal from the government is just so much gravy.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Hines Case Overplayed, But It's Good News Since It Means No War as Yet

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The Hines trial, in my opinion, has been overplayed in the New York papers, but the sight of the story, still on top of the right-hand side of Page One, is a blessed relief from day to day.

As long as the Hines trial leads the papers it is plain at a glance that it has not happened yet in Europe. On the day that Hitler makes his move Tom Dewey, Jimmy Hines, Dixie Davis and all the loathsome, crawling things which have been dredged up out of the politico-criminal sewers of New York to testify in court will be swept out of sight, and the proceedings will be summarized in the back pages. Then the war heads will roar of confusion and terror, and the people will read the papers with a feeling that the hour of doom has struck.

* * *

There was a hot trial going on in Paris in August, 1914, in which the wife of Joseph Caillaux, a former prime minister, was charged with killing Gaston Calmette, the editor of Figaro, for publishing intimate letters which had passed between her and Caillaux before their marriage. The newspaper world hung on that one, for, unlike the Hines thing, it had quality and a woman angle. But the war blasted it out of print, and I will bet you don't remember what the verdict was, if you ever heard of the case at all.

The question of news value generally is decided by the instinct of the desk in a newspaper office. Often the press is accused of overplaying or underplaying stories for reasons of business or political policy. But often such a charge can be pared down to mean that some pet beef over which the plaintiff has chewed a pencil far into the night has been boiled down to its relative importance, deep inside.

* * *

When I was a cub in St. Louis there was a folk tale about a man who had kicked one the night the battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor. This man was supposed to have been on the desk and to have tucked the bulletin away in a hole somewhere inside the paper.

Another one has it that the Chicago Evening Post put the Jeffries-Johnson fight in Reno back around Page Ten and reduced it to the essential intelligence that James J. Jeffries, white, the heavyweight champion, had been knocked out in the fifteenth round of a contest with Jack Johnson.

* * *

But, generally speaking, the news is played in proportion to its importance and public interest, according to the editor's judgment, which usually is fairly accurate. And, wishing Mr. Hines no particular ill, I hope he can continue to rank as high man in the New York papers indefinitely. Whether he did or didn't, Mr. Hines is good news from day to day.

Maybe people do not realize what a strain they are under just now, all tense and apprehensive like a wounded American officer in the little field hospital of whom George Patullo used to tell. Mr. Patullo, war correspondent for the Saturday Evening Post, was a patient when the German planes came over one night to drop bombs. They didn't hit the hospital, but one plane kept circling until the wounded officer sat up in bed and shrieked, "Drop it, damn you! Drop it and quit buzzing around!"

Ten Meet Death In Crashes Near Dayton

ELDERLY BRIDE AND GROOM DIE IN COLLISION

Five in Hospital, Seriously Injured; Two Children Among Fatalities.

(By Associated Press)

DAYTON — Death ruled the highways in this vicinity early today.

Ten persons, including two elderly newly-weds and two children, were killed in two separate automobile collisions, one near Lebanon, the other on the outskirts of Dayton.

Five other persons, all critically injured, lay in Dayton hospitals.

Six persons, three of them members of a vacation-bound Dayton family, died in the first crash. Two men and two women, were killed in the other.

The dead in the Lebanon accident were C. A. Platt, 59, of adjoining Butler county, his wife 50; Mrs. Audrey Grigsby, riding with them to visit Platt's son at a CCC camp: Mrs. Helen Mylor, 42, and her two sons, Thomas, 14 and Robert, 12.

Taking Family on Trip.

Thomas Mylor, sr., 45, taking his family to visit in Warsaw, Ky., was reported in fair condition. He suffered a fractured skull. His two sisters, Rose Marie Mylor, 40, and Mrs. Katherine O'Hearn, 44, and her son, Edward, 9, were in little better condition.

The Platts were married in July. He was driving east and Mylor south when the cars collided. One bounced off the road and scarred a tree a dozen feet above the ground.

Victims of the Dayton crash were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Harry Voight and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leonard, all of Dayton. Glade Howells, Patterson Field employe, was injured slightly.

One of the cars was driving on the wrong side of the road, Deputy George Glanders reported.

RAVENNA—(AP)—Three persons were dead and a fourth was in critical condition after a head-on collision of automobiles near here today. Thomas H. James, 43, of Detroit, and Earl M. Swinehart, 42, assistant city engineer at Cuyahoga Falls, were killed outright, and Harry Kaufman, 54, of Toledo, died eight hours later in a hospital here.

DEATH INQUIRY

Coroner Probes Bruise on Side of Woman's Face.

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich.—(U.P.)—Coroner Eugene Sampson ordered an inquest today into the death of Mrs. Peter Conrad Dings, 56, wife of a millionaire banker and oil man, who was found dead in bed at her estate on Spider lake.

There was every indication that Mrs. Dings had died a natural death from a heart attack except that the side of her face was badly bruised.

Mrs. Dings was alone on the estate except for servants. She did not go downstairs for dinner yesterday evening and George Green, gardener and chauffeur, went uptsairs to investigate. He found her dead. Her physician, Dr. F. G. Swartz, arrived soon afterward and said she had not been dead for more than an hour. An examination indicated that a heart attack might have killed her, but the physician could not explain the bruises on her face.

enough pressure to bear on Czechoslovakia to force the concession of most of the Sudeten demands.

Great Britain is sending a great battle fleet for maneuvers on the western side of the North Sea to impress Hitler. The Fuehrer blandly retorted by ordering his fleet out to maneuver on the eastern side, off the Norwegian and Danish coast as far south as the Netherlands.

France unified her air force—hitherto divided into separate commands—and held maneuvers designed to show Hitler that he could not break through that way, any more than he could through the vaunted Maginot line of fortifications on the German and Belgian borders.

It was a waiting game. Hitler's reported assurance to Britain that he would take no precipitate action led to the belief that no outbreak would occur, in the event the Sudetens and Czechs failed to reach an agreement, until Lord Runciman, the British mediator, makes a report and recommendations in mid-September. Then anything might happen.

Negotiations at Prague proceeded cautiously. Konrad Henlein, Sudeten leader, was back from Berchtesgaden to inform his party of the counter-proposals suggested by Hitler, and of the extent of the support to expect from him. The counter-proposals will be aired Monday at a meeting between President Edouard Benes and the Sudeten leaders.

PLAN SERIES OF LEVIES

ATHENS—(AP)—Government engineers today had the approval of delegations from Athens and nearby communities on plans for a series of levees in the Hocking river valley to protect the city from flood.

RIVERS IN COLORADO RISE IN 'FLASH' FLOODS; THREE DEAD

(By International News Service)

DENVER—Discovery of two additional bodies at daybreak today brought the number of known dead in Colorado "flash" floods to three.

Sheriff Willis Morris of Golden said the body of an unidentified woman was found beneath a bridge just east of Morrison, Colo., and that a 10-year-old boy, also unidentified, was found nearby.

Morrison was one of several Colorado towns inundated by flood waters which swept down a dozen northern Colorado canons following torrential rains late Friday.

Mrs. Walter Boyd, a physician's wife, was drowned in Coal creek, 16 miles west of Denver when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband was swept away in the raging stream. Dr. Boyd narrowly saved himself.

A score of mountain streams poured tons of water down the Colorados and the town of Morrison, 14 miles to the southwest, was under water. Reports from the town said nine-tenths of the business district was destroyed.

At Erie, Colo., about 20 miles north of here, 300 persons were driven from their homes and Erie was inundated.

At Idledale, just above Morrison, 12 persons were marooned on a tiny island.

Marie Antoinette Contest to Close Monday Night.

There is still time to enter the Marie Antoinette contest in which $25 in cash will be distributed to local winners in addition to a number of theater tickets. The Mansfield winner also will be entered in the national contest in which prizes are four free trips to Paris.

The contest closes Monday night at midnight and only entries that are postmarked before that hour will be considered.

It is only necessary to write about 50 words on "Why I Would Like To Visit The Country of Marie Antoinette." For the best essay, presented in the neatest and most original manner, there will be $15 in cash to the Mansfield winner; the second best will receive $7.50 in cash and the third will get $2.50 in cash. The next 25 will receive two pairs of theater tickets.

The first prize winner in Mansfield will have his or her entry sent to the national contest with the four national winners getting trips to Paris, all expenses paid. The entries should be sent to the Marie Antoinette editor, News-Journal.

Up and Down THE STREET

Mrs. M. C. Maxwell, R. D. 2, Bellville, was wondering today whose carrier pigeon forgot its mission and stopped at her home for a rest. The bird has bands on both legs, indicating it was carrying a message, Mrs. Maxwell said. One of the bands is metal and contains the letters "Au 38, GPR 5." The other band is rubber and bears "T 781" on the outside and "785" on the inside.

Ex-Gov. George White of Marietta was quite pleased over the fact that he was one of the prize winners in the Ohio Seniors' golf tournament which closed at the Westbrook Country club yesterday, and he didn't seem to mind it a bit that it was a "booby" award. For taking 229 strokes (his total was among the highest) to cover the course twice, the former Ohio governor received a lawn umbrella. "Being a Princeton man, the prize is quite appropriate, too," he said. The umbrella was black and orange. Princeton's colors.

How can an electric light bulb be lighted without being connected to a power line? That's somethink that has Mansfielders guessing when they view a novel display in the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company window. A disconnected bulb, its tip imbeded in sand is illuminated although its empty light socket dangles above it. How come? Well, the bulb rests on another that's hidden in the sand and is burning. Light from the bottom bulb is reflected to the one that can be seen, making it appear as if it is burning without being connected.

Gretchen Reighard's No. 1 ambition is to "bail" out of an airplane at a height of 25,000 feet. The Mansfield parachute jumper revealed this in a radio interview with Tom Manning over WTAM, Cleveland, yesterday afternoon. Gretchen, who is appearing at the national air races in Cleveland over the week-end, was one of three air-minded girls interviewed by Manning on the program.

Patrons at the Madison theater last night were treated to an unscheduled "double feature" but the extra attraction was cut short before the climax. While the scheduled movie was being shown on the screen, a patron seated in the rear of the house somewhat "under the influence" amused other spectators with his shouts of "whoopee!" during exciting moments of the picture. He let out several "whoopees" and then got more boisterous. By that time two policemen escorted him from the movie and this morning he drew a fine of $5 and costs on an intoxication charge in municipal court, which means that he paid $11.30 for his little fun.

ENFORCES WAGE-HOUR BILL

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Arthur L. Fletcher, state labor commissioner of North Carolina since 1933, today was given the important task of enforcing the new wage-hour law. He was named as assistant administrator in charge of compliance by Wage-Hour Administrator Elmer F. Andrews.

CROSS-PARTY ACTIVITY SEEN A POSSIBILITY

Both Democratic, Republican Quarters Stirred by Stand Taken by President.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt's avowed favor for "liberal" candidates, even if Republican, set politicans to speculating today on the possibilty of cross-party activity by the White House in the fall congressional campaign.

While the president said in discussing the subject at his press conference yesterday that he was talking about principles and not specific candidates, his statement that "the good of the country rises above party" created these questions:

Would he seek to give practical effect of the assertion by approving the candidacies of other than Democratic party members?

In a race between a Republican he considered "liberal" and a Democrat he viewed as "conservative" would he espouse the candidacy of the Republican?

'No Objection.'

Mr. Roosevelt's summation of the principle involved was that he had not "the slightest objection" to election of a "good liberal" running on a Republican ticket, and he said he thought such a man would serve the country better than a "conservative" Democrat.

The statement stirred quick reaction in both Republican and Democratic quarters.

John Hamilton, Republican national chairman, challenged the president's conception of "liberalism," saying "the true Republicans running for congress this year are liberals and most of the Democrats seeking re-election are not."

He declared he could not "believe that Mr. Roosevelt actually means what he says, because if he does his statement constitutes a repudiation of the New Deal and a large number of his followers on capitol hill."

Senator Logan (D-Ky.), usually a strong supporter of the president's views, said he believed in staying within party lines. This is necessary, he said, to maintain party responsibility in government.

"If the Democrats of a state choose a conservative," Logan added, "I would be for his election in preference to the Republicans' choice."

GET INVITATION

Civic Leaders Asked to Attend Bucyrus Subway Dedication.

Civic and business leaders in Mansfield had been invited today to attend a postponed dedication of the Bucyrus subway next Wednesday afternoon.

Laying of the last brick, which was scheduled for last Wednesday, was postponed a week because paving work had not been completed.

T. R. Barnes, Mansfield, a veteran member of the Lincoln Highway association, has been asked to place the brick on the project. It will be gold-plated and will bear the date of completion of the job.

Dedication of the $405,000 project will be held at 4 p. m. Wednesday with prominent state highway officials participating in the ceremonies. At 6 p. m. a dinner will be held at the Elks home in Bucyrus.
